Dear Mr. Dray Toby

We would like to thank your team for the effort and accomplishments that were displayed to us on the 09/10/15, showcasing our Bookhunter application after the third sprint. As your clients, we are unanimously pleased with your team's development efforts and we look forward to the final release.
After our meeting last friday, we would like to raise a few points that our team has noted:

There was a total of 14 Story Points and an estimated 56 hours of work to be completed during Sprint 3.
We were expecting an attempt to complete the following user stories:

Story Card	Completed?	Notes/Status
[SEVZER-29] Textbook details amendments	No	'Edit' button next to uploads is visible, but the server returns a 404 error: editTextbook.php was not found on this server
[SEVZER-26] Filter by: Books for sale	No	While there is a dropdown on textbooklistpage.php which allows you to filter by [Swap, Sell, Borrow] it is not functional
[SEVZER-41] Single Book page	Yes	Every textbook has its own dynamically created page
[SEVZER-7] Search by Title	No	Can search by title, but cannot search by ISBN or author - system doesn't capture author of books either
[SEVZER-5] Password reset	No	'Help to login' button is visible but the server returns a 404 error: forgot/ was not found on this server
[SEVZER-22] Book availability	No	On a textbook's page, the systems displays 'Looking to: [0-2]' but doesn't display an availability icon or in a readable format
[SEVZER-35] Alert Notifications	No	There is no notification functionality on the site - when a comment is left on a textbook there's no notification
[SEVZER-21]	No	While you can leave comments on textbooks - there is no way

| recommendation		to recommend it to other users or share on social media
[SEVZER-19] Promotion	No	There is no promotion feature on the site
[SEVZER-18] Newsfeed	Yes	You can view all textbooks that are available, with default pictures too!
[SEVZER-17] communication	Yes	Users are able to post comments under textbook listings

The demonstrations of your weekly progress were clearly presented through navigations while browsing your website along with the verbal descriptions that your team's representative delivered. Each new feature was mentioned its story card number of which eased us in knowing which of the story cards we requested at the start of the project have been done.

We are happy with the improvements that have been made after the first Peer Review we sent you previously. Such functionalities were signing up an account, searching, chatting with administrator, writing a comment, and providing a Contact Page as well as a default image on Book Detail page. Despite of this, perhaps the image preview for each book on View all Books' page could be fixed.

We realize that computers could dysfunction unexpectedly. There were a few functionalities that you mentioned have been created, however, suddenly did not work as expected during the demonstration. To avoid this issue, a testing of all the newly written codes for each feature should be tested on your website to make sure that they could function smoothly by the user's browsing your book-sharing website. Although there were few minor problems encountered, your team managed to recover them with acceptable reasons and surprised us with the other new features that you have made.

We must admit that your group provides an online book-sharing platform that follows the current trend of technology. One of the features we like from your website is the ability to have a real-time chat with your administrator for asking questions relevant to your service. We can see that each of your team members was involved in developing the website as everyone showed us to have the knowledge of each weekly progress. We hope you find our review constructive and take action on the points we have raised. We look forward to the final release of our product and wish your team the best of luck during this next sprint.

Kind regards,

Farahiya Musthofa and Nathan Norris
